

Extract of a Letter from J. W.
Huntsman's Wife.

KANSASVILLE, April 19th, 1852.

"We have a very backward spring; there is no grass yet. The river has been higher this season, than for the last fifteen years. The bottoms have all been covered over, but the water is now going down; there have been a great many cattle drowned.